-1.

Erected about 1884 by S.A. Sheffield, wealthy English sportsman, for his country home.

The structure is of two stories; the first of brick construction, painted;
the second of wood construction with shingle exterior, and the roof of tin.

*Compare with 1936 field
data sheet.*

The architect and contractor was Chris Stappenback, well known for his work in erecting the Pico Hotel still standing in Los Angeles.

The building is now owned by Mr. Edwin Backs of Placentia, California.

Information based on article in Anaheim
Gazette interviewing Mrs. Alice Grimshaw.
